ALLOWANCES ONLY

The Toronto board of control has decided that able-bodied men on relief will have to shovel off the sidewalks and streets. The board is agreed. The Edmonton council learned last week that if relief-men are so employed the city must not expect to get any money for paying them a few dollars in cash out of its own funds.

After a seven year wrestle with the relief
question we seem to have got two points cleared up.

1. There is nothing improper, inconsistent or publicly damaging in sending relief-men to clear walks and do other odd chores for a pittance.

2. But if the city gives them a bit of pocket money for so-called allowances, it is liable to have its government grants cut down.

Along with its other attributes the "direct relief" system seems to be admirably designed to perpetuate the direct relief system.

STAYING IN

The U.F.A. is continuing to be a political organization. The delegates at the annual convention so decided, rejecting the alternative that it abandon political objectives and confine its activities to direct action to improve the conditions of farmers and advance the general interests of agriculture.

The federal affairs organization will continue in affiliation with the Co-operative Community Federation. Where for practical purposes means the U.F.A. will continue to participate in Alberta being the largest of the federated groups. Neither is at present represented in parliament, and renewal of the affiliation only means that U.F.A. members will continue to promote C.C.F. propaganda with a view to winning seats at the next federal election.

highway, he will have to pay an extra $2.50. And if he goes to the house rigs up one of those complicated contraptions in which inventive youth delights, he will have to pay another $2.50 to find out what he can "get," if anything.

No one has to wait for a finding by the Bureau of Statistics that this increase in fees is not going to be popular, particularly the ruling that a license must be bought for each receiving set.
There is only one thing that has not had general approval than raising a "tax" is putting a new one.

The fact of the matter is the CBC needs more revenue to help its picture, since the national and those who get the service are in line to do the paying. It goes without saying that as he is to pay more, the listener will expect better value for his money, and raise a hubbub if he doesn't get it. He is getting better value already, and is promised still better a time goes on.

If the promise is made good, he will not object to the extra cost. That is the supposition on which the policy of betterment has to rely, and no doubt it is correct. There is a "happy medium" between the two, and the time is sound that most listeners would rather pay $2.50 for good programs
than $2 for programs not so good. And $2.50
distributed over the year does not amount to
much per hour of entertainment.

The same fact—need of money—is given as the reason for the new commercial broadcasts, about which a good deal of criticism is being heard. These commercial contracts, it is stated positively, are only temporary money-raising expedients designed to get the corporation free of debt and pay for stations to reach territory not now satisfactorily covered.

On that basis, the listener may be reasonably
sure to have good value, since the national system was projected to reach all parts of the Dominion, and no one can want the enterprise to fail. But the fact is that the corporation hopes this temporary expedient will not drag out like the
"temporary emergency" we ran into about
seven years ago.

Four thousand workmen were drowned in Haiti, while making a breakwater to stem the Haitian tide.

Battleford—Word was received here of the death of Big Bear. Ever since his release from Stony Mountain, he has been living on Poundmaker's reserve and the time is sound that most listeners would rather pay $2.50 for good programs
than $2 for programs not so good. And $2.50
distributed over the year does not amount to
much per hour of entertainment.

On that basis, the listener may be reasonably
sure to have good value, since the national
system was projected to reach all parts of the Dominion, and no one can want the enterprise to
fail. But the fact is that the corporation hopes
this temporary expedient will not drag out like the
"temporary emergency" we ran into about
seven years ago.

Just Handful of Famous Leaders Now Survive

FOOTSTEPS OF GREATS GROW EVER FAINTER

Strain of War and Post-War Duties Took Many Lives At Early Age

By ROBERT PARKER

Associated Press Staff Writer
PARIS, Jan. 24.—Of the handful of famous leaders the Great War produced, only a handful survive 50 years after. Here in France, to which friend and foe alike came sooner or later to fight or negotiate during the four years of carnage, the footprints of these great men are fading.

The strain of war and post-war duties, rather than old age, cut many down in the prime of life. Here among the reconstructed battlefields lived Marshal Ferdinand Foch, putting among his resolute or domineering uniforms a state occasion. Dapper General Maxime Weygand reads papers on the "goodness of virtue" to a drowsy French audience.

JUST RETIRED

One-armed General Henri Gouraud has just retired after 19 years of military service. He is now in Paris, where he lives quietly in the country. Alexander Millerand, who served for 14 months in 1918-19, sits in the senate but rarely escapes in debate.

Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, who spent much of the four years with his army on French soil but never made good his boast to celebrate his 70th birthday in his own country. Crown Prince Wilhelm, wears a brown shirt and tie home in Berlin. Field Marshal August von Mackensen, still wearing the form of a death's head insignia at 88, writes his memoirs in his German country retreat.

"NO FOUR"

David Lloyd George, only survivor of the "Big Four" of the Great War, Clemenceau, Orlando and Wilson of the Versailles peace conference, just passed his 73rd birthday under his cap in Cannes, and today celebrating his golden wedding anniversary. Winston Churchill, the only other living war statesman of Great Britain, is active in the House of Commons. Sir Hanham, who served in the British forces at Gallipoli, lives quietly in London and bides himself with military writings.

Still in harness is General Jan Smuts of South Africa who led the force which swept the Germans from East Africa. He is minister of justice in the Pretoria government. William Byrd, General of the Canadian army, is 74 in the army as a communications minister for external affairs.

Leon Trotsky, who made Russia's revolution, is still in Moscow and carries on his fight with the present Russian government in voluminous writings.

STUDIES BIRDS
Ex-Czar Nicholas of Bulgaria, forced to abdicate when his country was defeated in the war, lives in his ancestral country in Bulgaria and collects precious stones.

Nearly all the others are dead. The past year took a heavy toll which included Sir Robert Borden and Sir George Perley of Canada, Sir Austen Chamberlain of Britain and General Sir Edmund Allenby of Germany.

They joined in the shades the smiling through of Great War leaders, which only in the past four years had added King George V, King Albert of Belgium, Marshal Pilsudski of Poland, former president Raymond Poincaré of France, Marshal Von Hindenburg, E. A. Tamm and Beatty, and Viscount Allenby.

Happy Half-Century

Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George and Dame Margaret Lloyd George, above, shown in a recent picture, today celebrate their golden wedding anniversary while residing at Cannes, France.

Lloyd Georges in Mutual Praise on Gold Anniversary

By I. NORMAN SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 24.—"He is so quick in his mind," said Dame Margaret Lloyd George of her husband.

"She is a woman of serene courage, she never fusses or fumes," said David Lloyd George of his wife.

The two celebrate today at Cap d'Antibes on the Mediterranean their 50th wedding anniversary. With curly white hair, fair complexion and eyes and nose which he a little more rounded in his black cap but his twinkling eyes still gleaming from under bushy eyebrows and his hair as white as snow.

TWO INTERVIEWS
The whole Lloyd George family gathered on the Mediterranean for the golden anniversary, and the event prompted two separate interviews with Dame Margaret and the wartime prime minister.

"When did I first meet Dame Margaret?" Mr. Lloyd George repeated the question of A. J. Cummings of the News Chronicle. "Well, I must have been four or five years of age. As small children we passed each other in the street every Sunday morning, she going to the Methodist chapel and I to the Baptist chapel. Yes, there was feeling between the denominations but that made no difference to my wife and myself. I have always been an orthodox in religious matters as I have been in politics."

SAID DAME MARGARET
Said Dame Margaret in an interview with Rona Miller of the Express: "I'm a Presbyterian

LLOYD GEORGE SEES IL DUCE ACE BLUFFER

Declares Democracies Still Hold Trump Cards for Sweep

CANNES, France, Jan. 24.—David Lloyd George, who turned 60 today, said in an interview today and declared Great Britain was "too strong" of the future. The 75-year-old statesman, former prime minister of Great Britain, observed his golden wedding anniversary today.

He described Premier Mussolini of Italy as "perhaps the most skillful bluffer in Europe today, adding that he bluffed with very poor cards."

"The real cards are in the hands of the truly democratic powers," he said. "When the time comes they will make a clean sweep of the table."

TWO HOLD FUTURE

Mr. Lloyd George said "The future of human liberty for very many generations to come" depends on Great Britain, France and the United States and what they do together, working on parallel lines.

Should France be invaded by "an autocratic power," he said, "there is not a party in England that would not rally immediately to the side of France. Concerning Britain's position in the Mediterranean he declared: "We are not afraid in any way whatever."

"PARROT CRY"
The "parrot cry about saving the world from Communism by Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini leaves me cold. Fascism as extolled by Mussolini, Nazism as practiced by Hitler, and Bolshevism as explicated by Stalin reveal to me no fundamental difference.

Liberty just as remote in Germany and Italy as it is in Russia."

Widow Passes

DUBLIN, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Lilly Connolly, widow of James Connolly, Irish Republican leader, died today for his part in the 1916 Easter uprising, died Saturday.

CRISIS CASE

"We went to London and the crisis came when I opposed the Boer war," said Mr. Lloyd George. "I was shocked and reviled. People worked and started at me when I entered a restaurant. ... I had worked up in London a good legal practice, but it almost disappeared."

"My wife did not hesitate about living in London. She decided to face the storm with me and to send the children down to Wales until it abated. She has played a very great part in my political career."

Mr. Lloyd George described Dame Margaret's serenity as invaluable to a man living in the strains and excitements of parliamentary life. Dame Margaret put it this way: "He is so quick in his mind, you see, whereas, I'm placid and lethargic."

MODERN WORLD WAITS RESULT ANCIENT RITES

Chanting Lamas Hold March of Nations in Check

SHANGHAI, Jan. 24.—Chanting Lamas in the mountain fastnesses of Tibet are conducting mystical rituals to determine the absolute ruler of the mysterious "Forbidden Land."

On the outcome may depend the opening of the country to western civilization and an international race for control of the reputedly wealthy "roof of the world."

Letters from a foreign mission at Tachienlu, on the Tibetan border, some 5,000 miles west of Shanghai, disclosed the ancient rites were being held and the strange religious and political struggle that hangs on the result.

WITHOUT PARALLEL

Tibetan history records no previous case when the death of both the Dalai Lama and Panchen Lama left the country of 3,000,000 people without either of their all-powerful temporal and religious rulers.

The Dalai Lama died in December 1933, the Panchen Lama in November 1937. But the Panchen Lama or spiritual ruler had been exiled since 1924 and thus unable to recognize the reincarnation of the Dalai Lama the political ruler.

The power of the two grand Lamas—the Panchen and the Dalai—stems from the Buddhist doctrine of reincarnation. When either dies the other must infer him as his recently-born infant he has been reborn.

TESTING FOR TRUTH
Since the death of the Dalai Lama, political control of Tibet has been held by a group of his supporters called Gendun, Lama's synthetic to them are testing the truth of claims that the Dalai Lama was reincarnated in a boy discovered at Jyekundo by followers of the Panchen Lama.

The tests are unusually severe because of the dispute between the Dalai and Panchen Lamas before their deaths—a dispute which seemingly descended to their supporters.

The Panchen Lama, worshipped as a reincarnation of Buddha himself, attempted to bring educational and political reforms to the strange country, hemmed in by mountains. The Dalai Lama was unquestioned of temporal rule and Orthodox Tibetans resented the Panchen Lama's efforts to bring administrative reforms into the country.

The Gendun supporters of the old Dalai Lama, strangely enough, repudiate the Panchen Lama's changing line.

Tibet, naturally a republic owing allegiance to China, has been practically independent since the 1912 revolt led by the Dalai Lama.

Protest Made On Jap Entry U.S. Property

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The state department announced Saturday that United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew had made "emphatic" representations to the Japanese government over "15 cases of irregular entry of American property at Nanking by Japanese soldiers."

Grew protested also the department said against Japanese soldiers taking away "forcibly" 10 Chinese

women refugees living on the American properties.

As a result of the protest, the department reported, two officials of the Japanese embassy in Nanking and Major Hongo of the Japanese commandant's staff there gave American Consul John M. Allison "assurances that adequate steps were now being taken to prevent similar occurrences in the future."

The Saragosa Sea, the area of calm water surrounded by the swift Gulf Stream, and thickly blanketed with sea-weed, is nearly as large as the European continent.
